Local school board members resign

By Paul Guggina

GRANITE CITY — Ranney Rich, a Granite City Board of Education member since July 1987, has resigned his position for "personal reasons."

Rich was not present at a special school board meeting Monday night when his written resignation was accepted by the board.

In a telephone interview following the meeting, Rich declined to explain his departure.

"I just thought it was the right time," he said. "Let's just leave it at that."

Rich was appointed to the board last year following the resignation of Alan Crider. His term was to expire in November 1989.

The school board has 30 days to fill the vacant position.

In Venice, Phillip White has replaced David Levy on the school board.

Levy resigned because he moved to Pontoon Beach and was no longer a resident of the Venice school district. White, an Illinois-American Water Co. employee, was appointed to replace Levy by Board President Wilbert Glasper.

White's son, John White, is a junior at Venice High School. His daughter, Cassandra White, and other son, Phillip White Jr., are Venice graduates.

White, who had once considered running for alderman in Venice, said he was happy to be appointed to the school board.

"So much is going on in this community," White said. "You can sit back and not get involved, or you can help out. I want to help the district as much as possible."

"When brother Glasper approached me, I knew that he's a very understanding man and does everything right, and that's one of the reasons I considered it."

"They (the board members) are trying to do what's best for the district. I thought if they think that much of me to ask me, I'd take it. I'll try to do my best."

Man shot outside tavern

MADISON — A Venice man was shot and wounded outside the El Capistrano Lounge, 806 Jackson St., early Saturday morning.

Wesley Ware II, 22, of 82 Lee Wright Homes, was shot once in the abdomen at about 12:15 a.m., allegedly while standing in front of the tavern.

Ware was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where doctors removed a bullet. He was listed in good condition Tuesday morning.

Police are investigating. "I've heard about 15 different accounts of what happened," Lt. Paul Bargiel said.

'State of art' cardiac lab first in area

By Ken Moser

The cardiac catheterization laboratory at St. Elizabeth Medical Center is being hailed as the first in this area to feature computerized, state-of-the-art technology.

Since it was opened more than two months ago, cardiologists have performed more than 60 catheterizations.

All testing is performed by experienced, board-certified cardiologists with assistance from a qualified, trained staff of critical-care nurses and radiology technologists.

"It's evident from the first six weeks of operation that this was a much-needed service for our hospital to provide to the community," said Ted Ellerman, SEMC president. "From the usage the lab has already received, it's way over the top. In fact, it's a real quality service."

David Ferguson, M.D., an assistant professor of medicine/cardiologist and director of the Cardiovascular Care Unit at University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics, toured SEMC's lab and was impressed with its layout and technology.

"I thought it was a very nice, well-designed, well-equipped laboratory," said Ferguson, who was at the medical center to give a presentation to medical staff members on newer strategies for managing congestive heart failure.

"The procedure provides information about the overall condition of a patient's heart, including location of defects in the various walls and valves, location and degree of narrowing of the coronary arteries, and different pressures in the chambers."

Girl drowns in pool behind home

Michelle Kimble

GRANITE CITY — A dilapidated swimming pool with broken steps, reported to be filled with brown and green water, claimed the life of a 3½-year-old girl Monday morning.

Michelle Marie Kimble, 2733 Harding Blvd., was pronounced dead at St. Elizabeth Medical Center from apparent drowning at 11:58 a.m. after lifesaving attempts failed. She had been found at the bottom of the pool a little more than an hour earlier.

Her mother, Brenda Kimble, 23, told police she had awakened in the morning and noticed her daughter was not in bed. She searched the house and found that a glass sliding door was open approximately 6 inches.

Brenda Kimble looked in the back yard, including the pool, but did not see her daughter. She summoned James A. Marshall, 20, 4225 Illinois, 62, to help.

Marshall reported looking in the pool two separate times from ground level and seeing nothing. Finally, looking down from the deck, he saw the image of something, dived in, and recovered Michelle Kimble from the pool.

On top of the pool's deck, Marshall started cardiopulmonary resuscitation. Emergency personnel from the Granite City Fire Department arrived and continued the resuscitation efforts.

Gaffner's resume cited, military duty questioned

By Edward T. Hoern
P-R/J Washington bureau

WASHINGTON — Republican congressional candidate Robert Gaffner's opponent said Aug. 23 that Gaffner's resume incorrectly implies that he fought in the Korean War. But Gaffner's military duty took place no farther west than Hawaii.

In his six-page biography, Gaffner, the GOP 21st District hopeful, inserted under the heading of military service the following description: "Korean conflict, United States Air Force 1951-1953, Honorable Discharge."

Gaffner, a four-time candidate for the seat, said his authorized resume accurately reflects his military record despite the fact that the closest he got to Korea was the islands of Hawaii.

Mayor breaks tax levy tie

Mayor Von Dee Cruse cast a tie-breaking vote to place a $310,000 tax levy increase on final reading at the Granite City Council meeting last week. Cruse said developments have added "millions to our city's assessed value, but not one dime to our revenues, because we didn't levy for it." The council is expected to give final consideration to the levy next month.

Date set for possible strike

Granite City teachers will strike Sept. 6 if a contract agreement isn't reached before Sept. 1, said union President Shirley Stoll last week. "There was no controversy about a strike, none whatsoever," Stoll said following a two-hour meeting of union members. An "overwhelming majority" of the 350 teachers attending voted to strike, she said.

United Way drive to begin Sept. 13

The goal of the upcoming 1988 United Way fund-raising drive will be announced Sept. 13 at a campaign kickoff breakfast, according to Paul Raczekiewicz, general campaign chairman. Money raised from the fund drive will help support 22 local health and human service agencies during 1989.

Trade law has teeth, negotiation plan

To the editor:

The U.S. Senate overwhelmingly approved the Bensten-Danforth Trade bill by an 85 to 11 margin and sent the bill to President Reagan for his signature.

"It cannot be overstated that this is a major, major bill. It constitutes a very real change in U.S. trade policy. I created trade policy," I said on the floor of the Senate just prior to final passage.

"It is a major bill but it is not a protectionist bill. It is based on the opposite of protectionism.

"It says that Americans can compete for international markets provided that the rules are enforced. This bill is designed to enforce the rules of international trade. It makes enforcement much more certain than it is now.

"It strengthens the hands of our trade negotiator. It makes American trade policy credible for once. It is a very big step toward a more competitive America."

The new trade law is based on the principle of trade reciprocity.

Trade reciprocity is a policy of opening foreign markets with negotiation and retaliation, when necessary, against unfair barriers to U.S. goods and services.

Key provisions of the Bensten-Danforth bill passed include:

Negotiation authority for the president.

Grants to the executive branch authority to negotiate new multilateral and bilateral trade agreements. This authority will enable the U.S. to participate actively in the ongoing Uruguay Round of trade talks. A Uruguay Round agreement to eliminate non-tariff barriers to world trade would be considered by Congress under "fast track" procedures (time limits for debate, no amendments) in the early 1990s.

Authority to enter agreements that reduce tariffs by as much as 50 percent also would be available to the president. In addition, the bill grants U.S. approval to a new system to "harmonize" the international mechanism for classifying goods in trade.

Adversarial trade (Danforth-Riegle amendment).

Requires the U.S. to identify nations with consistent patterns of trade barriers and market-distorting practices; to estimate the value of barriers in terms of damage to U.S. sales; to bring Section 301 cases against major barriers; and to take retaliatory steps unless barriers are removed by negotiation.

Compliance with agreements would be measured by increased exports of competitive U.S. goods and services. Retaliatory action would occur under the terms of the preceding section (mandatory with respect to violations of agreements, discretionary in other instances).

Unfair foreign trade practices (Section 301 of Trade Act of 1974).

Sets deadlines for action by U.S. Trade Representative (USTR) to remove key foreign trade barriers through negotiated settlements.

Under previous law, negotiations could drag on for many years; the new law requires a U.S. response in between 18 and 24 months. At that time, the U.S. would take retaliatory measures in unresolved cases where a trade agreement has been violated. In other cases, action could be taken, but would not be mandated.

U.S. actions could include tariffs, quotas, cancellation of past trade concessions, or other actions.

Industries injured by imports (Section 201, Trade Act of 1974).

Requires domestic industries seeking relief from imports to show serious injury and demonstrate that they can become competitive if relief is granted; such showings would result in relief, in the form of trade measures (quotas, tariffs) or non-trade measures (such as adjustment assistance), unless the president finds that relief would do more harm than good to the general economy.

The stronger requirement for relief would be balanced by greater authority for the president to determine the form of relief granted.

Worker retraining. Authorizes new funds for retraining workers displaced by plant closings or modernizations, with 80 percent of funds committed to state programs.

For workers who lose their jobs to imports, additional assistance with retraining and job search would be provided under a new Trade Adjustment Assistance program.

The new program would be funded by a small fee on imports (less than two-tenths of 1 percent of value) taking effect in two years, unless the president suspends the fee.

Foreign agricultural subsidies (Danforth-Bensten marketing loans).

Establishes marketing loans for key farm commodities in crop year 1990, absent negotiated agreements with trading partners to reduce farm export subsidies.

If the president waives marketing loans due to their economic impact, he would be required to take other "export enhancement" measures. Such export enhancements could be waived only if their use would impair further negotiations with competitors.

The purpose of the marketing loan is to strengthen the U.S. negotiating position in the Uruguay Round, where the U.S. is seeking broad, shared reductions in farm subsidies and market-distorting practices that deprive U.S. producers of export sales.

Telecommunications trade (Bensten-Danforth Senate bill, House bill).

Establishes reciprocity in telecommunications trade as a major objective of U.S. policy.

Sets negotiations for between 18 and 42 months to open key foreign markets such as Europe, Japan and Brazil.

Absent successful negotiations, the president would be directed to take action that he deems most likely to secure mutually advantageous terms of trade in telecommunications.

Senior helpers being recruited

Belleville Area College's Programs and Services for Older Persons is offering a Senior Companion Program for low-income persons 60 years of age and older.

Persons who qualify on the age and income basis are being asked to volunteer 20 hours per week for a stipend rate of $2.20 per hour. They are reimbursed for out-of-pocket expense for travel and meals while volunteering for the program.

After qualifying and receiving appropriate training, the senior companion is placed in residence to give companionship to an older person who needs some support or supervision in order to be able to remain in the mainstream of life.

Senior companions never administer medicine and are not permitted to do any heavy cleaning.

Their assignments include writing letters, reading, helping to prepare light meals, encouraging an interest in good hygiene, helping with a prescribed physical therapy program, assisting in-home management, developing social contacts, shopping and general respite care.

The monetary gain received by the senior companions does not affect their public aid, Social Security, Medicaid, food stamps or other benefits and does not have to be filed as income on their income tax.

"In addition to financial assistance, they are given the opportunity to be of service to those who are less fortunate, thus giving the senior companions a new sense of importance and meaningfulness in their lives."

Record use follows heatwave

DECATUR — Illinois Power Co. customers shattered records for electricity demand and usage during the August heatwave, reaching peak demand levels not expected for at least another 10 years.

In addition to breaking daily electric usage and demand records twice during the week of Aug. 14, customers also set a new weekly usage record for the third consecutive week.

The company credits the Clinton Power Station with helping meet extraordinary customer demands. "The Clinton Station has been the source of criticism by those who say the station has been both too costly and unnecessary."

"Anyway you figure it, this year's boost from Clinton made the difference between falling short and handling record electric peaks," according to Larry S. Brodsky, Illinois Power vice president.

On Aug. 15, customer electric demand reached an all-time record high of 3,717 million kilowatts, broken the next day, Aug. 16, with demand peaking at 3,784 million kilowatts. Aug. 16 marks the fourth time this summer that customers have set a new peak demand record. The latest record is almost 14 percent above forecast and almost 12 percent over the 1986 record of 3,386 million kilowatts. The 1986 record, set July 18, has been surpassed 12 times this summer.

Customers also broke last month's July 15 daily electric usage record, using 72.7 million kilowatt-hours Aug. 15, and 75.4 million kilowatt-hours Aug. 16. The latest daily usage record is 12 percent over the July 18, 1986, record of 67.1 million kilowatt-hours.

Customer electric usage for the week Aug. 14 to 20 reached 468.5 million kilowatt-hours, setting a new record for the third week in a row and for the fourth time this summer. The previous weekly usage records were set June 19-25, with 424.4 million kilowatt-hours Aug. 15, and 453.1 million kilowatt-hours Aug. 16, and Aug. 7 to 13, with 454.5 million kilowatt-hours Aug. 15. The weekly usage record now stands 9 percent over the old record of 424.4 million kilowatt-hours used July 19 to 25, 1987.

Area farmers ready to establish pastures

By Ronald E. Cornwell
Madison County
Extension Adviser,
Agriculture

Between Sept. 1 and Sept. 15 is the best time to establish a new pasture in the Madison County area.

The first step in pasture establishment is to take a soil test to determine the amount of fertilizer and limestone needed to bring the field up to test.

The ideal Ph for growing alfalfa and other legumes is 6.5 to 7.0. A grass pasture should have a Ph between 6.0 and 6.5. Phosphorus and potash needs can be determined from a soil test.

Apply needed phosphorus, potash and limestone during the tillage process so they can be thoroughly mixed with the soil. Phosphorus is especially important for seeding establishment.

If the fertility level of the field being seeded is adequate, the method of seeding is not that important. Broadcast seedings are as successful and high yielding as band seedings. It is important to use a roller or some other tool to firm the soil to get good seed-soil contact.

There are several different pasture mixes that can be used. Alfalfa and orchard grass is a commonly used mixture. Legume grass mixtures not using alfalfa might include Red Clover or Ladino Clover.

To obtain additional information on pasture establishment, we have the Agronomy Handbook available at the Extension Office in Edwardsville. The publication sells for $2.50.

The Agronomy Handbook covers various seed mixtures for either permanent pasture or a hay crop. The book also recommends a per-acre seeding rate of each mixture.

If your club is hosting its annual banquet, fashion show or ball, we want to know about it. Bring us an article and a photo and we'll publish them FREE of charge in the Press-Record/Journal. Call us at 877-7700 if you have any questions.

Gaffner supports tax restructuring

COLLINGSVILLE — Congressional candidate Robert H. Gaffner, 21st District, has announced his support of proposals to abolish all real estate taxes and to replace real estate taxes with a revenue neutral income tax increase.

"The use of real estate taxes is archaic and should be immediately replaced by a revenue neutral income tax increase. The burden of operation should no longer be placed upon the poor and the elderly who happen to be unfortunate enough to own real estate since the real estate taxes have become an unbearable burden upon those least capable of carrying the brunt of local government operations," Gaffner said.

"I do not, however, support the concept of replacing real estate taxes with sales taxes since the sales tax is the most highly regressive tax possible. Taxes should be paid in accordance with the public's ability to pay and the citizen's income is the fairest index of ability to pay for government services," Gaffner said.

"We must beware of any proposals to eliminate only a portion of the real estate tax, since the taxpayer should not be satisfied with only partial tax restructuring. Some have proposed that education fund real estate taxes for local school systems be the only property tax to be replaced with an income tax. This proposal is not satisfactory since in a short time real estate tax bills will be right back where they are now — unpayable to a significant number of area residents," he said.

Robert H. Gaffner is a candidate for Congress in the Nov. 8 general election.

Costello wants good committee

By Edward T. Hearn
P-R/J Washington bureau

WASHINGTON — Fresh from a Florida vacation, newly elected Illinois Rep. Jerry Costello, D-21st, was in his Capitol Hill desk Aug. 22 trying to assemble a staff and pitch his name for a good committee assignment.

The Democrat from Belleville was plugging away in the capital's infamous August heat and humidity despite the fact that the House and Senate were in the second week of a month off for party conventions. Congress began the break the day after Costello was sworn in on Aug. 21.

But Costello took time off from his new congressional duties for a partisan swipe at the troubled Republican ticket of Vice President George Bush and Indiana Sen. Dan Quayle, and a little boasting about his recent visit with Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis, the Democrat's nominee.

"I think (Bush's) first major decision has turned out to be a blunder," Costello said in an interview. "He should have picked someone who has been tested. He could have selected other members of his party who have been active and have long records of service to country and party."

Quayle came under instant fire when it was learned he may have used family connections to enter the Indiana National Guard and avoid service in Vietnam. Quayle entered the guard in 1969 when he was 22 years old.

Costello, winner of the Aug. 9 special election to replace late Rep. Mel Price, was in Belleville Aug. 19 to greet Dukakis and join him for a whistle-stop campaign trip.

"We had a good meeting," said Costello, who boarded the "Duke Express" in Belleville and hopped off in Springfield, Mo. "I was very impressed with his knowledge of economic development programs, reconstruction of roads and bridges and what it does for the local economy of the area."

Costello, who returned home after spending a restful few days near Pensacola, Fla., with his wife, Georgia, and their three children, said he would spend three days in Washington and should learn about his committee assignments before departing again for Belleville.

"We are in touch with Speaker Wright's office," he said. All along, Costello has wanted a place on the Armed Services Committee, which Price used as his power base for decades.

But following Price's death April 22, the Democratic House leadership filled Price's Armed Services seat, selecting Illinois Democratic Rep. Lane Evans, whose 17th District includes the Rock Island Arsenal.

Construction of light rail transit system could begin in '89

By Roger McGrath

Metro Link, the light rail transit system St. Louis has debated for seven years, is on track to begin construction next year. Some contracts could be sought next month.

On Aug. 12, commissioners of the Bi-State Development Agency approved the "full-funding contract" that would obligate the federal government to finance the 18-mile line's $288 million construction cost. Federal officials now must sign the document.

The plan also obligates the bus system to cover excessive cost overruns and operating costs, said commissioner Menlo Smith, a light rail critic, charged.

"We're betting the farm," he said. "We're preparing to enter something that puts the agency in substantial jeopardy."

Smith cast the only dissenting vote, as the board voted 8-1 to authorize signing of the full-funding contract with the Urban Mass Transportation Administration. UMTA and local officials have been negotiating the contract since last fall.

If UMTA makes no "substantive" changes in the contract, Bi-State will sign the full-funding agreement and can then begin withdrawing money from the $90 million Congress already has appropriated for Metro Link, said commissioner Tom Purcell, chairman of Bi-State's light rail committee.

Steve Willis, deputy general manager for Metro Link, said he would begin seeking bids from engineering and architectural firms in September.

Construction of the portion of the line from Lambert Field to Hanley Road would begin next year, as would rehabilitation of the Eads Bridge and the Washington Avenue/Eighth Street tunnel downtown.

The rapid-transit line will originate in East St. Louis, serve most of downtown, including St. Louis Centre, Busch Stadium and Union Station; move through the Central West End, University City and the University of Missouri at St. Louis campus; and, following the Interstate 70 right-of-way, run to the airport.

Metro Link will be relatively inexpensive to build compared to other light rail systems because the line will operate on existing railroad tracks and right-of-way between East St. Louis and UMSL, Willis said.

Metro Link will cost $14.8 million per mile vs. $10.6 million for a system in San Jose, Calif., and $82.8 million for a system in Buffalo, N.Y.

Planners predict 37,000 persons will ride the rails daily by the 10th year of operation.

Critics contend ridership estimates are too high and that Metro Link's operating deficits will be so high that light rail will also sink Bi-State's regional bus system.

"I just don't feel they've presented evidence it will succeed," Smith told the Suburban Journals. "They are jeopardizing the present (bus) system."

As part of the full-funding contract, UMTA required that local governments agree to provide "stable and reliable" sources of operating funds for the combined bus and light-rail system.

UMTA specifically insisted that St. Louis County agree to resume contributing $2 to Bi-State operations for every $1 the City of St. Louis contributes. The money comes from a half-cent transportation sales tax.

The St. Louis County Council agreed to the two-to-one ratio, but only if several conditions were met. The key condition: That three of the five commissioners from Missouri live in the county.

"I want everybody to understand that we cannot operate (Metro Link) without St. Louis County's two-to-one funding," commissioner C. Wayne Spann said. At his insistence, commissioners spelled out the county's pre-conditions in the resolution authorizing the full-funding contract.

"St. Louis has looked at this issue of rail for 40 years," Purcell said. Authorizing the full-funding contract "is a closing of the long-term recognition to have rail as a part of the transit system," he said.

Bi-State assumed control of Metro Link in November 1987.

Previously, the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council, the regional planning body, had handled light-rail planning and there was talk of creating an entirely new 10-member entity to handle design and construction. Instead, that idea was dropped and Bi-State is in charge of design, construction and operation.

Gaffner says Costello position hypocritical

COLLINSVILLE — "Jerry Costello's contention that he is a pro-life candidate is not substantiated by fact when Jerry receives the endorsement of Mike Dukakis and, in turn, endorses Dukakis," congressional candidate Robert H. Gaffner said.

Gaffner said Dukakis introduced legislation in support of abortion in Massachusetts three years before the Supreme Court decision of Roe vs. Wade.

Costello received the endorsement of Michael Dukakis in Belleville on Aug. 19 and Costello endorsed Dukakis at the same Belleville rally.

Gaffner is a candidate for Congress in the Nov. 8 general election.

The most prescribed anti-arthritis drug in the world is available to the 37 million Americans who suffer from arthritis.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration recently approved Voltaren (diclofenac sodium) for use in the United States.

Developed by the Pharmaceuticals Division of the Ciba-Geigy Corp., the non-steroidal anti-inflammatory (NSAID) drug was first tested in Europe. It has been available outside the United States, by prescription, for 14 years.

It will be available locally within four weeks.

The new drug has a good safety record, said Dr. Cody K. Wasner, an Oregon rheumatologist who has published articles on arthritis and its treatment in numerous medical journals.

"Voltaren seems to cause less stomach irritation. Also, it has a very short half-life. It quickly leaves the bloodstream, but the medicine stays in the joints longer."

In laboratory tests, Voltaren was found to be comparable or superior to other arthritis medications, including aspirin.

The FDA has granted approval for Voltaren's use in treating three major rheumatic diseases: osteoarthritis, rheumatoid arthritis and ankylosing spondylitis.

Osteoarthritis, which may be hereditary or related to a metabolic disorder, is a result of deteriorating joint tissue and the breaking down of the cartilage surrounding the joint. It can become so painful that movement becomes difficult or impossible. Most people past age 60 show some evidence of osteoarthritis.

Rheumatoid arthritis, caused by an immune system problem, causes tissue inside the joints to become swollen and overgrown and to produce too much fluid. This leads to stiffness, swelling, warmth and redness of the skin over the affected joint. Movement becomes limited and painful. In severe cases, joints can become deformed and internal organs adversely affected. It most commonly afflicts those in the 30- to 45-year-old range.

Ankylosing spondylitis, usually an inherited disease, causes pain and stiffness in the lower back and hips. In the course of the disease, the bones of the spine may fuse together, causing significant loss of movement.

Its victims are mostly men and usually under 40.

The major goal of any arthritis medication, Wasner said, is to cut down on inflammation, which causes pain, stiffness, swelling and lack of mobility.

"Although the patient's most immediate goal is to relieve the pain, arthritis is not like a headache — it requires long-term treatment."

"Pain relief may be quick, but the medication must be taken a couple of weeks before it has a significant effect on the arthritis itself," Wasner said.

A major problem with treating arthritis is the amount of "quack" cures available for it. "Arthritis patients are the number one victims for useless remedies. More than $1 billion is spent every year on worthless arthritis treatments — we don't even spend that much on research," Wasner said.

Although there is no cure for arthritis, the widespread belief that nothing can be done for it is untrue, Wasner said.

"You can't do anything about getting old, you can't prevent getting arthritis, but you can prevent most of the problems associated with it. It's very treatable, and medication can make a big difference. Early treatment prevents it from getting worse," Wasner said.

Persistent joint swelling, pain and loss of motion, especially if coupled with fatigue, are symptoms that should be checked by a doctor. A simple examination can determine if arthritis is present.

Stress in families Will be examined

Alton Memorial Hospital, One Memorial Drive, Alton, will host a three-part workshop on "Stressed about Your Feelings for Those You Love?"

The three workshops will be "Young Adult Children," Sept. 14; "Elderly Parents," Sept. 28; and "Self Midlife Changes," Oct. 12.

The workshops will be 7 p.m. in Alton Memorial Hospital's cafeteria A and B. Joyelle Proot, from the Maria Center for Learning and Life Enrichment of St. Louis, will conduct the workshops.

The fee is $5 for each session or $12 for all three.

Blood drive set at Price Center

Having an adequate blood supply during the summer is crucial for the recovery of hospitalized patients, according to Janice Cook, who is urging residents to donate at a blood drive Sept. 2 to be held at the Education Center, Price Support Center.

The blood drive will be from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Cook said potential donors who are unsure as to whether they can donate should not first going through the donor process.

"Only people can give blood," Cook said. "All it takes is an hour from your busy schedule."

Gaffner

Resume cited, service questioned

lo, who narrowly beat Gaffner in the Aug. 9 special election, said he believed the resume was misleading.

"I did think he served in Korea based on his resume," Costello said, adding, however, that he believed the resume flap did not become an issue in the second race with Gaffner.

Costello, 39, said he became eligible for the draft after graduation from Assumption High School, but obtained college and family deferments after enrolling in Belleville Area College and marrying his wife, Georgia. He did not serve in Vietnam.

Questions about Gaffner's representations came at a time of increasing attention to the war records of candidates. Since his nomination last week, Sen. Dan Quayle, 41, the GOP vice presidential candidate, has been dogged by reports he got out of Vietnam service by using family influence to enter the Indiana National Guard.

Gaffner said both he and Quayle were coming under unfair attack, adding that questions about war records were distraction and robbed voters from hearing the issues that need to be debated.

"The news media is trying to build this up," Gaffner said. "The issues in this race are much more serious than whether Dan Quayle served in the National Guard."

"I never heard of a man being criticized for serving his country," he added.

Gaffner, 58, acknowledged he never served in Korea, but remained on duty on United States territory, Canada or Mexico.

He defended the Korean War reference, saying it did not convey the impression he participated in that struggle, which thousands of U.S. soldiers fought for three years against North Korea and Chinese forces.

Glamorous hibiscus enhances any setting

By Robert J. Dingwall
Garden spot

The hibiscus is a showy plant with large blooms and deep-green foliage. It is popular as a potted plant, both for the home and, in warm weather, for the outdoors. The newer varieties are more compact and have larger blooms lasting from one to two days.

A reader asked for some guidelines on the care of hibiscus.

Plants are usually purchased with several blooms and lots of buds showing. They like very bright light or a sunny, warm location. This applies to both inside and outside locations.

During the winter, when the light is not as bright and temperatures are cooler, hibiscus tends to rest. Even when it is not blooming, its glossy foliage makes it a decorative plant.

Care is simple. The soil should be moist at all times, but the pot should not stand in water. To thoroughly water the plant, apply until some runs through the holes in the bottom of the pot. This provides a leaching effect, which limits the buildup of soluble salts.

Feed with a balanced fertilizer, just occasionally when the plant is indoors and once a month after it has been moved outside in the spring.

If buds drop or fail to develop, the plant probably is not receiving enough light to produce flowers. If light is good and flowers are not forming, increase feeding until new buds appear.

Plants should be pruned in early spring and repotted as well, if needed.

Barbecue pits tropical flavors for harmony

Here is a perfect example of a marriage made-in-paradise, cream of coconut, rich and sweet, stirred and blended with juicy, tangy pineapple. Together, they create a natural, harmonious flavor balance in frosty drinks, succulent entrees and enticing desserts.

Cooks in the tropical regions of the world, from Indonesia to the Caribbean, long have appreciated the virtues of combining pineapple and coconut. In a variety of international dishes, pineapple with its tangy-sweet character adds a new flavor dimension to pork, beef, chicken and seafood entrees.

It cuts the "hot" of spicy dishes and elevates stir-fried vegetables and rice dishes to exotic levels. When it comes to sweets, the juicy, bright flavor of pineapple enlivens desserts from cheesecake to chocolate fondue.

Cream of coconut, often a cocktail mixer, also is gaining momentum in America as a flavor that evens out the fire of a curry, adds "sweet" to sweet and sour, and brings a rich, new taste sensation to entrees such as Tropical Kabobs with Peanut Sauce.

Mix and match these flavors in party-proportion Pina Colada Slush, as well as Polynesian Fruit Salad, Strawberry-Pineapple Cooler offers a soft pink hue to any Labor Day event and Frozen Pina Colada Torte adds an exotic finale to summertime barbecues.

Strawberry-pineapple cooler

- (10 oz.) pkg. frozen strawberries in syrup, thawed
- (8 oz.) can crushed pineapple
- 3/4 cup pineapple juice, chilled
- 1/2 cup cream of coconut
- (12 oz.) bottles club soda, chilled (3 cups)

Pineapple sherbet or sorbet

In blender container, combine strawberries and pineapple. Blend until smooth.

In pitcher, combine strawberry puree, pineapple juice and cream of coconut.

Just before serving, add club soda. Scoop sherbet into glasses. Pour in juice mixture. Garnish with pineapple chunks and strawberries, if desired.

Makes about 7 cups.

Frozen pina colada torte

- (7 oz.) pkg. flaked coconut, toasted (about 2 1/2 cups)
- 1/2 cup margarine or butter, melted
- (14 oz.) can sweetened condensed milk
- 1/2 cup cream of coconut
- 1/2 cup light rum or tsp. rum flavoring
- (20 oz.) can crushed pineapple, well drained
- 2 cups (1 pt.) whipping cream, whipped

In small bowl, combine 2 cups coconut and margarine. Press firmly on bottom of 9-inch springform pan. Chill.

In large bowl, combine sweetened condensed milk, cream of coconut and rum. Stir in 1 cup pineapple. Fold in whipped cream.

Pour half the mixture in prepared pan. Sprinkle with 1/2 cup coconut. Top with remaining cream of coconut mixture.

Freeze 6 hours or until firm.

Garnish with remaining pineapple and coconut. Serve on pineapple slices, if desired.

Tip: To remove torte easily from springform pan, line bottom of pan with parchment paper.

Makes one (9-inch) torte.

Pina colada slush

- (20 oz.) can crushed pineapple
- (15 oz.) cans cream of coconut
- (16 oz.) can pineapple juice
- 3/4 cups light rum (if desired)
- 1 (32 oz.) bottle club soda

In blender container, combine crushed pineapple and cream of coconut. Blend until smooth.

In large freezer-safe bowl, combine coconut mixture, pineapple juice and rum. Cover. Freeze overnight.

Remove from freezer 30 minutes to 1 hour before serving. When mixture is slushy, spoon into large punch bowl. Gradually add club soda. Garnish with pineapple chunks and maraschino cherries, if desired.

Makes about 4 quarts.

Tropical kabobs with peanut sauce

1 lb. raw medium shrimp, peeled.

- deveined
- (20 oz.) can pineapple chunks, drained, reserving juice
- 1/2 cup cream of coconut
- 1 tsp. oil
- 2 tsp. soy sauce
- 2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
- 1/2 tsp. crushed red pepper flakes
- Red or green bell pepper squares
- 1 Peanut Sauce

In small bowl, combine reserved juice, cream of coconut, oil, soy sauce, garlic and crushed red pepper. Pour over shrimp. Refrigerate 4 hours or overnight.

On skewers, arrange shrimp, pineapple chunks and peppers. Grill or broil as desired, basting frequently with marinade. Serve with Peanut Sauce. Refrigerate leftovers.

Peanut Sauce: In small saucepan, combine 1/4 cup peanut butter, 1/2 cup cream of coconut, 2 tablespoons soy sauce, 1 tablespoon lemon juice and 1/4 teaspoon crushed red pepper. Over medium heat, cook and stir until peanut butter melts and mixture begins to boil. Reduce heat. Simmer, uncovered, 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Serve at room temperature. Makes about 1 cup.

Note: 1 pound stir-fry beef, pork or chicken strips can be substituted for shrimp.

Wind down with restful meal that relieves work in kitchen

Pasta Primavera refers to early vegetables, but this colorful and picturesque main dish has become a welcome dish any time of year. Fresh salmon joins vegetables and cooked pasta with a sauce zesty from lemon peel and parmesan cheese.

A fresh fruit tray shows off an array of the season's finest for serving with a sour cream honey dressing. Start by selecting a plump yet firm pineapple. Ripe pineapple comes in a range of colors from green to gold. It should smell like fresh pineapple, not like vinegar which shows fruit fermentation.

This recipe suggests melon, pears, red grapes—all colorful, sweet additions. Arrange fruit on a tray and let guests pick and choose. They can dip or top it with tempting Orange Cream Dressing.

Pasta primavera

Fresh flavors erupt in vegetable harvest

With the season's bounty of zucchini overcrowding kitchen counters, the time is ripe for some fresh ideas for serving this versatile vegetable.

The mild flavor and crisp-tender texture of zucchini adapt so easily to such a wide range of seasonings and preparations that it is a favorite of cooks as well as home gardeners. Whether chilled in salads or heated in savory side dishes, this year's harvest gets fresh appeal by teaming it with the spicy flavors.

Zesty Zucchini Skillet is a fuss-free side dish that is ready to serve in short order. A quickly cooked combination of zucchini, onion and tomatoes, it takes its lively flavor from a blend of picante sauce and seasonings. A last-minute sprinkling of cheese provides pleasing flavor contrast.

Zucchini Toss with Bacon Dressing is at its full-flavored best when served at room temperature. Pour the hot bacon dressing over zucchini, mushrooms, cherry tomatoes and cheese strips, then toss and serve with an avocado garnish. Spicy and tangy, it makes a great accompaniment for foods cooked over coals.

Zesty zucchini skillet

- 4 cups diced zucchini (½ inch dice)
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1 or 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 tbsp. oil
- 2 tsp. cumin
- 1 tsp. oregano leaves, crushed
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1 cup picante sauce
- 1 medium tomato, diced
- 1 cup (2 oz.) shredded Monterey Jack cheese

Cook zucchini, onion and garlic in oil in 10-inch skillet over medium-high heat, stirring constantly, about 2 minutes.

Sprinkle with cumin, oregano and salt. Stir in picante sauce and continue cooking, stirring constantly, until most of liquid has evaporated and vegetables are crisp-tender, about 4 to 5 minutes.

Stir in tomato. Heat through. Remove from heat. Sprinkle with cheese.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Zucchini toss With Bacon Dressing

- 2½ cups short, thin zucchini strips, cut 1-by-¼-by-¼ inch
- 1½ cups thinly sliced mushrooms
- 8 oz. cheddar or Monterey Jack cheese, cut in 1-by-¼-by-¼ inch strips (2 cups)
- 8 small cherry tomatoes, halved
- 4 slices bacon, diced
- ½ cup picante sauce
- 2 tbsp. red wine vinegar
- 1 tsp. sugar
- ½ tsp. cumin
- 1 ripe avocado, sliced

Combine zucchini, mushrooms, cheese and tomatoes in medium bowl.

Cook bacon in small skillet until crisp. Remove bacon to paper towel. Pour off all but 3 tablespoons drippings. Add picante sauce, vinegar, sugar and cumin to drippings in skillet. Bring to boil.

Pour hot dressing over zucchini mixture. Toss lightly. Sprinkle with bacon. Garnish with avocado. Serve at room temperature.

Makes 6 to 8 servings, about 6 cups salad.

Bacon-lettuce-tomato brunch eggs

- 4 slices bacon, diced
- 2 tbsp. butter or margarine
- 1 can (11 oz.) cheddar cheese soup
- 8 eggs, slightly beaten
- 12 cherry tomatoes, cut in half (1 cup)
- 4 lettuce leaves

In 10-inch skillet over medium heat, cook bacon until crisp. Remove and pour off drippings. Over low heat, melt butter in skillet. Return bacon to skillet. Cook 1 minute.

In medium bowl, stir soup until smooth. Gradually blend in eggs. Pour into skillet. As eggs begin to set, stir lightly so uncooked egg flows to bottom.

Add tomatoes. Cook until set but still very moist, stirring occasionally. Divide among four plates, each lined with lettuce leaf. Makes 4 servings.

Fire sticks hide surprise inside of tingling cheese, hot chilies

Fire Sticks are crusty bread sticks filled with Monterey Jack cheese and green chilies.

They are a snap to make with frozen bread dough. Each one-pound loaf makes 16 Fire Sticks. One batch will bring everyone back for more.

For extra hot Fire Sticks, try jalapenos in place of green chilies.

They make a good snack any time of day or as a complement to all types of cuisine.

Fire sticks

- 1 (1 lb.) loaf frozen bread dough
- 4 oz. Monterey Jack cheese, cut in 1/2 inch sticks
- 4 whole green chilies, canned or fresh, cut in 1/2 inch strips

Let bread dough thaw until pliable. To this dough in microwave, wrap frozen loaf in plastic wrap and heat on low power 6 minutes, rotating occasionally.

Using a little flour on dough and fingertips, stretch or roll thawed dough to a long thin strip, about 5 by 30 inches. Arrange strips of cheese and chilies about 2 inches apart to make 16 bread sticks.

Cut dough in strips with sharp knife. Using flour on fingertips, bring dough around filling and pinch to seal at all edges.

Place bread sticks, seam-side down, on greased cookie sheets. Bake at 375° for 20 minutes or until golden brown.

Remove from pan immediately to cool slightly on rack or waxed paper.

Note: For extra hot Fire Sticks, substitute jalapenos for green chilies.

Recipe

Stir-fried beef on lettuce

- 1 lb. boneless beef sirloin, cut 1/2 inch thick
- 1/2 cup dry sherry
- 1/2 cup sodium-reduced soy sauce
- 3 tbsp. oil
- 8 oz. mushrooms, sliced
- 1 pkg. (6 oz.) frozen pea pods, defrosted
- 1 tbsp. cornstarch
- 4 cups shredded lettuce

Slice sirloin diagonally across grain in thin strips 1/2-inch thick.

Steak will slice more easily if partially frozen 30 minutes.

Combine sherry, soy sauce and cornstarch. Place beef strips and marinade in utility dish. Cover and marinate 15 minutes.

Heat 2 tablespoons oil in wok or large non-stick frying pan over medium-high heat. Add mushrooms and pea pods. Stir-fry 3 to 4 minutes. Remove vegetables. Reserve.

Drain marinade from beef, reserving marinade.

Add remaining oil to pan. Quickly brown beef strips, half at a time, stirring constantly.

Add reserved vegetables and marinade to wok. Cook and stir until sauce thickens. Serve beef stir-fry over lettuce. Makes 4 servings; 340 calories, 19 gm. fat, 75 mg. cholesterol, 673 mg. sodium each.

'Metal Years' looks at deviant lifestyles

By Frank Hunter
Staff affiliate

Documentary filmmaker Penelope Spheeris' "The Decline of Western Civilization Part II: The Metal Years" (2½ stars) is a pungent late 20th century horror film that pierces the armor of the heavy metal mania and reveals the ugly stepister of rock 'n' roll in all its degeneracy and excess.

In 1980 Penelope Spheeris made "The Decline of Western Civilization," which covered the Los Angeles punk scene.

Since then she has continued checking out Los Angeles night-life. This film focuses on the metal freaks and out-of-date bands that now revel in thunderous drum and guitar concerts augmented by fog machines, booming speakers and mixing equipment that pulls enough electricity to run a saw mill for a week.

In an expertly photographed, sharply edited film are performances by Faster Pussycat, Lizzy Borden, London, Odin, Seduce and Megadeth.

Spheeris conducts behind-the-scenes interviews with luminaries such as a reformed Ozzy Osbourne (who once chewed the head off a bat on stage and decapitated a dove in front of astonished record company executives).

There is a pathetic poolside conversation with Chris Holmes of WASP. He floats in a pool recliner, pours a couple of quarts of Smirnoff over his head and down his throat, and exchanges drunken quips with Spheeris and his mother, who smiles wanly at her son's admission that he is a bona fide alcoholic.

COLLINSVILLE — Despite high electrical use this summer, Illinois Power Board officials are confident that the need for a new nuclear power plant is unnecessary, representatives of two consumer groups said Friday.

Because the plant is unnecessary, the groups contend, IP customers should not be forced to pay rate increases to subsidize the $4.25 billion nuclear power plant which went into operation last November.

At a press conference at the Collinsville Public Library, Tim Earley of the Illinois Public Action Council and Robert Hollmann, Citizens Utility Board member from the 21st District, blasted IP, saying the utility is taking advantage of the summer heat to "promote a false image of the need for the Clinton power plant."

"IP is working pretty hard to take this heat wave and use it to their advantage," Hollmann said.

Throughout the summer, IP has sent out press releases about the high power demand that those releases indicated that if it weren't for the Clinton plant, the company would have had to purchase power from other power companies.

Earley said the Clinton plant is important to IP because the company can use the excess capacity to sell electricity to other Midwestern utility companies.

According to the two groups, peak demand is the crucial issue in determining the need for new generating capacity.

"Illinois Power has inflated the demand for the system by lumping together electricity sold to other utility companies and to non-IP customers with electricity consumed by its own customers of the company," Earley said.

Earley said the figures IP gives for peak power usage are misleading and could be trimmed substantially by large amounts of power could be saved during peak periods by cutting service to interruptible, nonjurisdictional and discount load customers, he said.

Interruptible customers are industrial users that, in return for a special rate, would allow IP to cut power to the plants with one hour's notice if demand exceeds capacity.

IP may also charge them higher rates during those times if the companies cannot operate. Those rates, Earley said, are based on whatever IP has to pay to purchase electricity from other power companies.

Discount load rates are given to industrial customers to keep or attract a business in the area, Earley said that service can also be cut.

Cardiac 'cath' lab first in area

Dr. Johnson and Dr. Schaff, completed cardiology fellowship training at St. Louis Hospital, while the other, Dr. J. Ballesteros, received his training at St. Francis Hospital, Evanston, Ill.

Assisting the cardiologists during the procedures are three critical-care nurses and two X-ray technologists from SEMC; all have undergone extensive training at St. Louis Hospital's Cardiac Cath Lab. The nursing staff consists of Marianne Hicks, Kelly Kahan and Becky Andria, and the radiology technologists are Walter Madej and Shaky Salgado.

The procedure begins with the patient lying on a table in the Radiology Department's Special Procedures Room, located on the ground floor of the medical center. With comfort and convenience in mind, the medical center has designed a special waiting area for members of the patient's family.

For further information, persons may call the SEMC Cardiac Catheterization Laboratory at 798-3179.

Nonjurisdictional users are electrical cooperatives with agreements with IP.

"If you are able to cut off huge amounts of power, that should not count against the peak," Earley said.

He compared peak usage to 1986 power capacity figures from the Interstate Commerce Commission. At that time, IP can produce 4,561 megawatts. Of that, Clinton provides 823 megawatts.

On Aug. 8, IP reported a peak usage of 4,561 megawatts. By cutting the interruptible, nonjurisdictional and discount load customers, Earley said, demand could be cut by 3,000 megawatts or less, leaving substantial amounts in reserve.

Hollmann also claimed IP understates its generating capacity.

"We are supremely confident that once the cold facts are available, our contentions will be borne out," Earley said.

Bill Shreck, IP district manager, said the claims were "the farthest things from the truth I've ever heard."

He said that on Aug. 11, several generating units were out of commission and some interruptible customers were asked to shut down or pay market rates.

He said the entire load must be considered when figuring peak power usage.

Nuclear plant isn't needed, 2 groups say

COLLINSVILLE — Despite high electrical use this summer, Illinois Power Board officials are confident that the need for a new nuclear power plant is unnecessary, representatives of two consumer groups said Friday.

Because the plant is unnecessary, the groups contend, IP customers should not be forced to pay rate increases to subsidize the $4.25 billion nuclear power plant which went into operation last November.

At a press conference at the Collinsville Public Library, Tim Earley of the Illinois Public Action Council and Robert Hollmann, Citizens Utility Board member from the 21st District, blasted IP, saying the utility is taking advantage of the summer heat to "promote a false image of the need for the Clinton power plant."

"IP is working pretty hard to take this heat wave and use it to their advantage," Hollmann said.

Throughout the summer, IP has sent out press releases about the high power demand that those releases indicated that if it weren't for the Clinton plant, the company would have had to purchase power from other power companies.

Earley said the Clinton plant is important to IP because the company can use the excess capacity to sell electricity to other Midwestern utility companies.

According to the two groups, peak demand is the crucial issue in determining the need for new generating capacity.

"Illinois Power has inflated the demand for the system by lumping together electricity sold to other utility companies and to non-IP customers with electricity consumed by its own customers of the company," Earley said.

Earley said the figures IP gives for peak power usage are misleading and could be trimmed substantially by large amounts of power could be saved during peak periods by cutting service to interruptible, nonjurisdictional and discount load customers, he said.

Interruptible customers are industrial users that, in return for a special rate, would allow IP to cut power to the plants with one hour's notice if demand exceeds capacity.

IP may also charge them higher rates during those times if the companies cannot operate. Those rates, Earley said, are based on whatever IP has to pay to purchase electricity from other power companies.

Discount load rates are given to industrial customers to keep or attract a business in the area, Earley said that service can also be cut.
